Analysis, Design, Testing & Implementation

Phase 1: Requirement collection and analysis:

Because following the standard protocol is necessary,.we create static template for the website that do not work,by this we get a idea about the website design and we can imagine that how our website will display

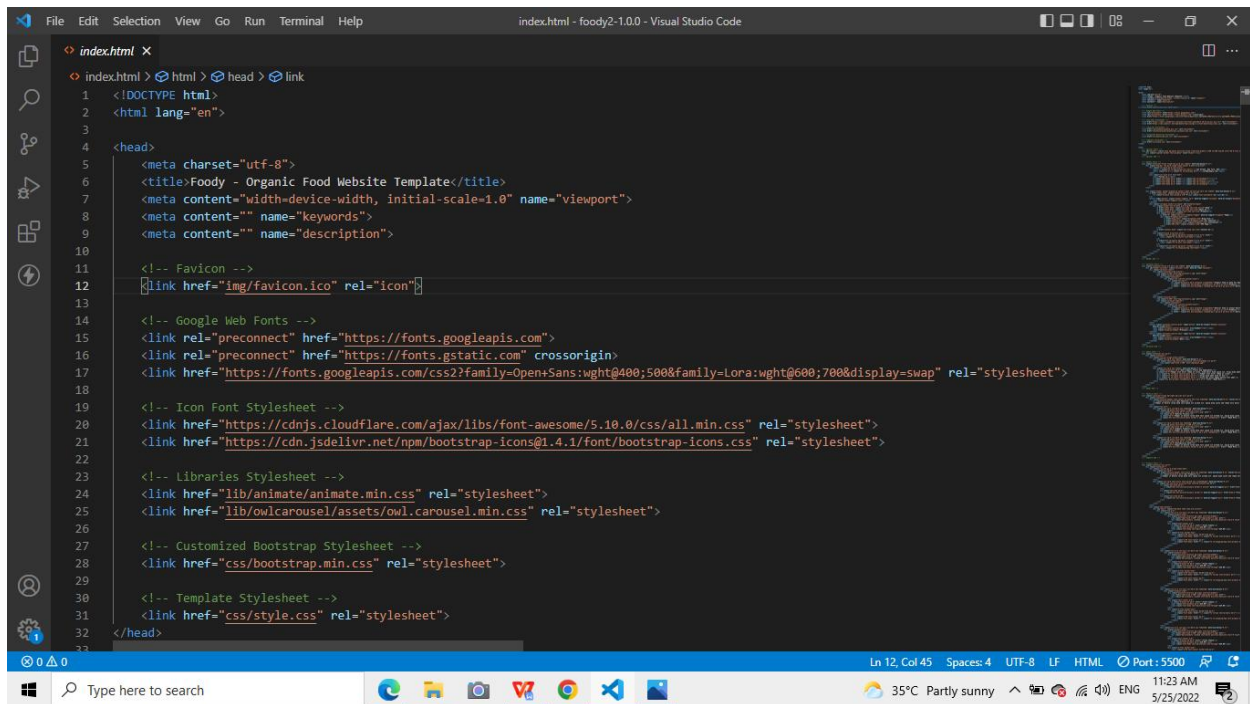

Phase 2: Design:

In this next phase,the documents of system and software designs are ready as per the requirements specification of the documents.it is very essential to explain the whole architecture of the system. We hired the good designer to make a user friendly and attarctive design to the project.

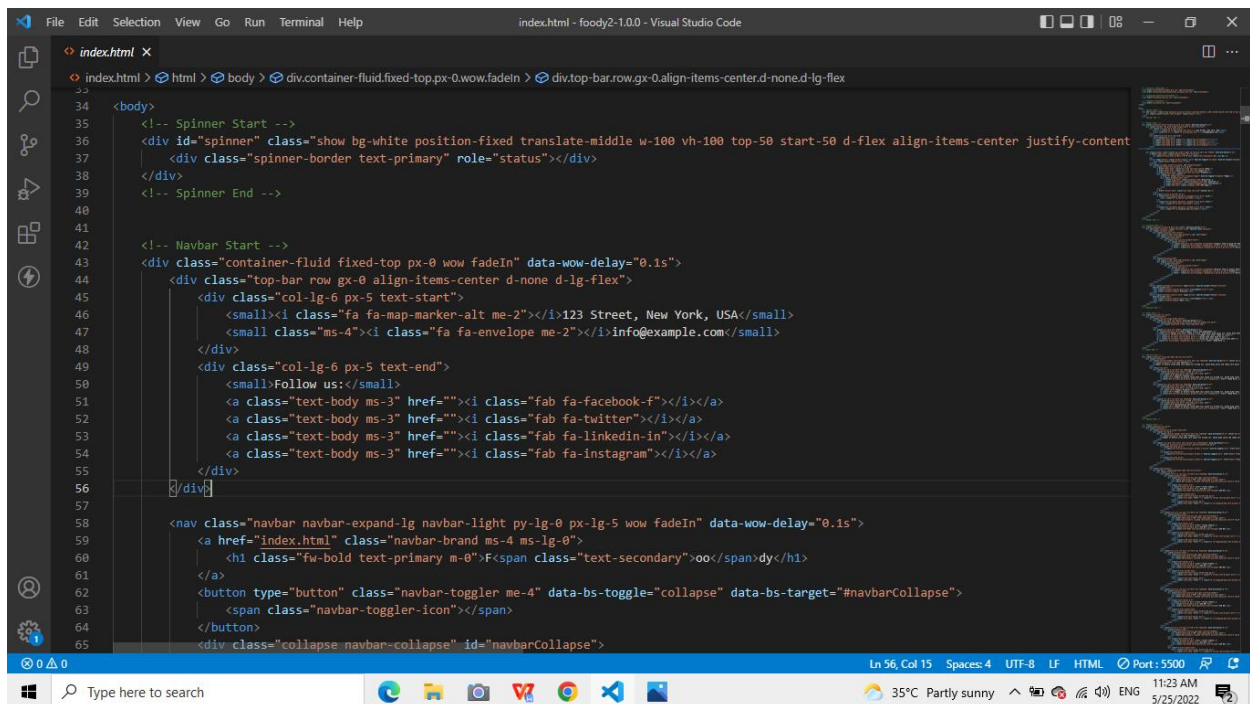

Phase 3: Coding:

This is the last phase of it,in which there is coding.coding is a that part which make the whole page. We write code in any chosen programming language.
